Governance, Risk and Financial Literacy Program February 27 – March 1, 2019

The Rotman School of Management in partnership with the Canadian Police Association have developed a three-day “Governance, Risk and Financial Literacy Program” (GRFLP) designed specifically for police association Board members.

The Program is a customized curriculum designed to:

- Enhance the participants’ knowledge of their roles, duties, and responsibilities as board members.
- Provide a framework for good governance in the context of member associations.
- Offer tools to enhance the effectiveness of boards of member associations.
- Clarify the concept of financial literacy and board members’ responsibilities and duties with respect to it.
- Introduce participants to financial statements and their use in decision making by board members.
- Explore the interaction between financial and strategic decision making.
- Provide participants with insights on performance measurement and management.
- Provide a framework for risk management for directors.

The overall program goals are to:

- Advance participants’ knowledge of governance
- Enhance the financial literacy of participants
- Provide a framework for risk management
- Deliver insights on board effectiveness
- Develop insights on performance measurement and management
